A Practical Approach in Building Security Resilience in Zero Trust
18 January 2023

While many organizations strive to achieve zero trust in order to achieve cybersecurity resilience, this concept means different things to different organizations. Zero trust is not a product, but a mindset, a journey towards building better security resilience within an organization that includes a set of core capabilities and use cases.

This session aims to help organizations avoid confusion and develop a clear strategy about how to go about implementing a resilience zero trust security model and achieve their desired outcomes.
