

Welcome Remarks by AiSP EXCO Lead for Cloud Security, Mr Dennis Chan on 24 September 2024

1. Good Afternoon,
  - a. Distinguished guests,
  - b. Corporate partners,
  - c. Ladies and gentlemen
2. Welcome everyone to AiSP Cloud Security Summit 2024. I am Dennis Chan who is leading Cloud Security SIG with AiSP.
3. As we gather here today, I want to ask everyone of you: Are you ready for the storm? The storm of cyber threats, data breaches, and security vulnerabilities that come with the ever-growing reliance on cloud?
4. The truth is cloud security is no longer a choice but it's a necessity. We need to stretch ourselves beyond breach prevention or data protection.
5. This summit is a call to action. A call for all of us here today to come together as a community to share knowledge, expertise, and best practices in cloud security.
6. Special mention to our sponsors and supporting partners whose generous support made this event possible. Your support has been instrumental in our success, and we are truly grateful for your partnership. In no particular order they are

7. Over the next hours, we'll explore the latest advancements in cloud security, from AI-powered threat detection to zero-trust architectures. We'll hear from leading experts and learn from each other's successes and even failures. Looking forward to SMS Tan gracing our dialogue session later too.

8. I hope today summit is not just about learning but about taking action to protect our organizations, our customers, and our digital assets from the ever-evolving threats in the cloud.

Conclusion

9. Hence let's make a commitment today to prioritize cloud security. Let's work together to build a safer, more secure cloud ecosystem. And let's show the world that we're ready for whatever storms come our way.

Thank you, and let's get started!
